

Fachsprache

International Journal of Specialized Communication

Forum for early-stage researchers – 21st LSP Symposium in Bergen 2017

At the previous LSP Symposia, the editorial board of the journal Fachsprache together with the local organisers have held a special forum for early-stage researchers. This tradition will be continued at the upcoming LSP Symposium in Bergen June 28–30, 2017 (<https://www.nhh.no/en/lsp2017>).

The forum is designed for graduate students, junior researchers as well as post-docs. The aim of the forum is to provide a platform for early-stage researchers to introduce their research plans, address their methodology or other relevant issues of their research. A panel of senior researchers will provide their comments on the short statement presentations and share their experiences and views.

Participants are invited to submit their abstracts to the regular participation website (<http://linguistlist.org/easyabs/LSP2017>) before December 31, 2016. Please follow the guidelines of the organisers concerning abstracts (300 words, state research questions, approach, method, data and (expected) results). For our forum, we are furthermore interested in knowing which problem in your project you would like to address especially at the event.

If you have questions concerning the format etc., please feel free to contact Prof. Ines Busch-Lauer (Ines.Busch.Lauer@fh-zwickau.de) or Prof. Jan Engberg (je@bcom.au.dk).

We hope to meet you presenting your early-stage project and look forward to interesting discussions and enlightening presentations.

All the best

Ines Busch-Lauer
Jan Engberg
Merja Koskela